Re: If you were The King of The Ring, what would you do?

I'd make sure the perpetrators and conspirators of real and actual malice had a loaded gun pointed to their own head while being too stupid and deluded to realize it. They'd pursue their own self serving machinations and designs not realizing they were only hastening their own eradication, effectively ensuring justice is served on their own heads by their own designs despite all the rationalizations they tell themselves to the contrary. Cheers. God truly is both righteous AND just.

Which God?

There are at least three false Gods skulking round this planet. They are all named in the Bible in one way or another. All claiming to be The One True God.

If God wants the Ring, he must show himself, and talk like a man.

Look around.

Whoever has been running this planet these last millenia is no decent God.

Very good. Exactly correct.

This is what is happening. And yes, they are too drunk on loosh and pride to realize it.

The punishment grid has been used against common folk for centuries.

Try and start a charity? Get punished by the aetheric grid.

"No good deed goes unpunished" is a literal Matrix command.

Now it's being turned against them.

Now they get to see what it's like being lost and lonely in a wilderness of mirrors.

Just a bandit. If it could wield its power of stupid without destroying its self it'd be something. It takes a true God to harness the most destructive force in the universe, stupidity, and not destroy self. I think thats whats happening, just my latest theory. Nothing, not malice and evil can withstand the force of stupidity.

Well, this world is fallen, corrupt and disgusting. It is diseased, evil and garbage. He doesn't want it. He didn't make the world as it is. I don't want it either. I want nothing to do with it.

Satan has been running this planet. I think of it as more of keys, than anything else. The keys were set on a table and whoever wanted them the most could grab them. They are easy to reach and easy to see. No matter how you use them though, you're going to break it all. Nothing you can do would fix anything, it's not possible. Infinity is too big. It's not ours. I'd just give it back to my father and submit I am not worthy.

No doubt this world is a hot mess.

But many beings are trapped here. So lets build away out for everyone. Else this prison cube could end up infecting all of Creation.

They keys were more given than grabbed.

Of course we can fix things. Most people solved the water, energy and micro-finance issues 10 to 90 years ago. The inventions just haven't reached the mainstream news yet, but they will.

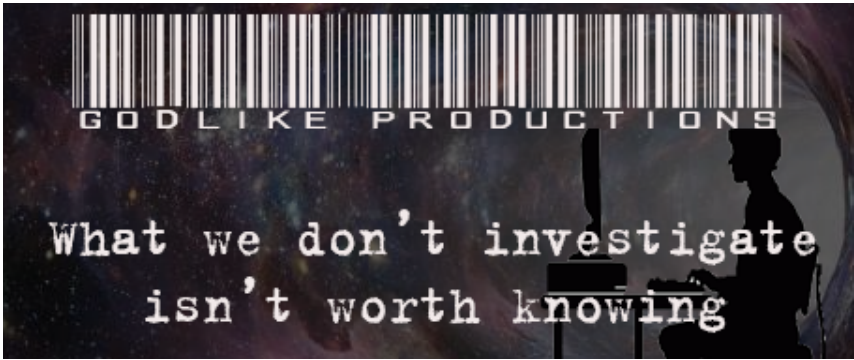

Indian, Chinese, SE Asian, African and South American engineering students are busy fixing things right now.

Only whitey sits there warbling and wringing his hands.
