Show us a link. Surely there would be an official release if a part of public lands were closed to the public.

There are parts of many National Parks and other lands that are off limits to the public. You will likely not find online links about them, they do not want to attract attention. But when in the parks they are marked. I know for a fact Yellow Stone and the Grand Canyon has such areas.

Yes because those are geographically or culturally sensitive areas. You can't show any evidence other than talking out of your ass.

They advertise literally every other closure (e.g. above 10,000 feet was closed during covid) but I'm sure they just don't advertise this one because of your conspiracy theory. Then show us a drawing on a map. A link to a story from someone getting ticketed or arrested. Or stop talking out of your ass

Be careful if you go exploring on the mountain...

Quoting: Anonymous Coward 84022423

Many mountains like that.

Quebec has some in the Laurentians (confirmed army shit going on there) and one near Rimouski where folks tend to disappear. There, people just stay on the highway and don't stop near.

Thread: Why would the government cover up bigfoot?

Inter dimensional being.

Quoting: Anonymous Coward 82332069

... As for Bigfoot, think H.G. Wells's Morlocks. Single-purpose minions to do the heavy lifting, snare surface-dwellers, take out the trash.

Buying in to Bigfoot is a buy-in to Hollow Earth. Unmentionable.

Quoting: Anonymous Coward 84706892

Hollow Earth stands on its arguably straightforward own. No lazy reliance on metaphysics required.

Quoting: Anonymous Coward 84397702

Sasquatch may be surprisingly close-related to hummingbirds, cuttle fish and chameleons, at least in terms of possible crystalline, light-bending properties in his trademark gillie-suit's flowing, long tresses.

Therefore his command of instantaneous, photo-accurate camouflage—even suggesting his coat may be machine-generated illusion, too.

Commonly unseen walking along freeways, grazing in crowded supermarkets, auditing social-sciences classes...
