'The Ancient Roots of Plant Based Diet' Vegetarian Philosopher Quotes

"If one has killed an animal, one must himself be killed by that same animal. This is called mamsa. Mam means "me," and sa means "he." As I am eating an animal, that animal will have the opportunity to eat me."

Srimad Bhagavatam 10.10.14,
Srila Prabhupada

"To avoid causing terror to living beings, let the disciple refrain from eating meat... the food of the wise is that which is consumed by the sādhus; it does not consist of meat."
The Buddha.

"If you declare that you are naturally designed for such a diet, then first kill for yourself what you want to eat. Do it, however, only through your own resources, unaided by cleaver or cudgel or any kind of ax."

The Roman Plutarch, in the essay, "On Eating Flesh."

"As long as men massacre animals, they will kill each other. Indeed, he who sows the seeds of murder and pain cannot reap joy and love."
Pythagoras

"Truly man is the king of beasts, for his brutality exceeds them. We live by the death of others. We are burial places! I have since an early age abjured the use of meat..."
Leonardo da Vinci.

"Nonviolence leads to the highest ethics, which is the goal of all evolution. Until we stop harming all living beings, we are all savages."
Thomas Edison.

"Flesh-eating is simply immoral, as it involves the performance of an act which is contrary to moral feeling—killing."
Leo Tolstoy.

"It may indeed be doubted whether butchers' meat is anywhere a necessary of life... Decency nowhere requires that any man should eat butchers' meat."
Adam Smith.

"I look my age. It is the other people who look older than they are. What can you expect from people who eat corpses?"
George Bernard Shaw.

"A dead cow or sheep lying in a pasture is recognized as carrion. The same sort of carcass dressed and hung up in a butcher's stall passes as food!"

J. H. Kellogg.

"It is my view that the vegetarian manner of living, by its purely physical effect on the human temperament, would most beneficially influence the lot of mankind."

Albert Einstein

"I do feel that spiritual progress does demand at some stage that we should cease to kill our fellow creatures for the satisfaction of our bodily wants."

Mahatma Gandhi

"Then God said, "Behold, I have given you every herb that yields seed which is on the face of all the earth, and every tree whose fruit yields seed; to you it shall be for food. Also, to every beast of the earth, to every bird of the air, and to every creature that crawls upon the earth, in which there is life, I have given every green herb for food. And it was so."

The amount of meat mindless idiots consume is absolutely disgusting. It would be one thing if everyone was raising these animals themselves but they have no idea how much time and effort goes into this. You pretty much make someone your slave so you can have a burger. And factory farming is nasty as hell. If you want to eat all this meat raise the animals yourselves lazy ungrateful fucks

Tesla proclaimed that eating vegetarian/plant-based equates to optimal mental performance.

The impact that tortured meat and/or dairy products have on the mind/body/spirit of those subjecting themselves to it is far more powerful than most care to realize.

It has impact on just about everything in one's life.

The only way to know the difference is to engage in deep purification of one's mind/body/spirit complex.

It is without doubt that it does something to one's state of being. The same can be said for the one that lives in balance with Nature killing only what one, and one's family needs. This one has reverence and gratitude resulting in energetics vastly different than what we are experiencing today.

Personally I agree with those before me with greater depth that spoke of the immorality of consuming flesh such as Plato & Pythagoras.

I just brought my own attention to the word "Matters."

Mind over matter.

What we eat has a frequency...just like what we see, hear and are exposed to in everything.

If we want to be at the wheel, we have to control what we can.

Food is an easy choice to program ourselves with.

There is a life force in foods. Things grown from the earth and fresh have the highest vibration.

oh damn...that takes me to the crap they do to our food.

Even with plant based...

Gratitude helps.

Yes, exactly. Same goes for how we consume water. What kind of water. How much we pray/activate it, or not. I recall in the Ra Material a practice provided wherein one charges their water/food-stuff by visualizing love/light pouring into it. I find feeling/singing love/gratitude to be highly effective. The impact that such effort/intention has on what we put into our temples can be monumental.

The crap 'they' do to the land/air/water is satanic psychological warfare, let's be real. But we can be free of it through compassion/emptiness/embodiment-of-teaching/purification. We are immune in so far as we know of ourselves as immune. We cease being batteries to the matrix through awakening from the dream-spell.

Haha, funny thought-stream... :-) I've thought (and think) a lot about this stuff.

You realize these are characteristics of a moral relativist?

This very virus is at the root of humanities ongoing struggle.

Those that have a BELIEF (not a TRUTH) that no objective morality exists in this Universe are themselves deceived and are apparently bringing the rest of us down with them.

Ignoramuses believe that they are the arbiters of what is right and wrong. Awakened beings understand Natural Law and how to operate within it. Avatars likely end up reaching a level beyond that but such quality in consciousness is exceedingly beyond my pay grade.

Re: 'The Ancient Roots of Plant Based Diet' Vegetarian Philosopher Quotes

My neighbor has an egg biz... she needs hens, not roosters.

The roosters ate so much of her grain, it was putting her out of business, even with getting a tidy sum per dozen eggs.

Needless to say, she was ready to "chop some heads", and asked me if I wanted them instead of the meat going onto the trash heap.

As I was dressing them out, it occurred to me, to be fair to all God's creatures, those that eat meat should have to do their own butchering.

It should start in High School... with a class on meat preparation. If you can't stomach the process... no meat for you.

Plants should be no different. There should be a class for harvesting plant materials as well.

Milk and eggs on a small farm are another story, as they are sustainable. If my St. Croix milk sheep don't want to be milked, they will not let you touch them.

If my hens don't lay, it is for a reason, too, and it is up to me as the farmer to figure out how to make them happy little layers. I keep ONE rooster for them, named 'Herald' due to his lovely crow. He keeps the girls happy and protected.

But I only need the one fellow for my 19 hens.

Hawks and coyotes will eat my flock without protection. So I try to keep a balanced view on things.

What you are saying is true, though, OP.

The ability to Remote View, and also the use of Psychic Energy is reliant upon a plant-based diet to achieve the necessary purification.

I have tried this myself many times to prove it to myself. Yes, meat eating lowers one's vibration to a degree.

"To avoid causing terror to living beings, let the disciple refrain from eating meat... the food of the wise is that which is consumed by the sādhus; it does not consist of meat." The Buddha.

Quoting: DancingThought

It's not that simple though.

The Buddha's Sangha of monks were allowed to eat meat if it was given to them. This was during the First Turning of the Wheel of Dharma. The Pratimokshayana.

Even in the Paramitayana (your above quote seems to be from this class of Sutras), meat eating is allowed, if it follows the threefold purity or is free of the three objections.

Do it. I've been reflecting on the quality of my life and it was much higher when I was plant based in the 90s. Without going into too much detail, I suffered many losses and reversals during my low carb paleo years. All things being equal, I do think eating animal foods had a subtle but noticeable effect on my karma which caused me to gravitate towards a downwardly mobile lifestyle. I've gone back plant based the last 6 weeks and am seeing positive changes already.

Re: 'The Ancient Roots of Plant Based Diet' Vegetarian Philosopher Quotes

"To avoid causing terror to living beings, let the disciple refrain from eating meat... the food of the wise is that which is consumed by the sādhus; it does not consist of meat." The Buddha.

It's not that simple though.

The Buddha's Sangha of monks were allowed to eat meat if it was given to them. This was during the First Turning of the Wheel of Dharma. The Pratimokshayana.

Even in the Paramitayana (your above quote seems to be from this class of Sutras), meat eating is allowed, if it follows the threefold purity or is free of the three objections.

It could be that simple. What you espouse could be false doctrine. How can you personally know for sure.

Re: 'The Ancient Roots of Plant Based Diet' Vegetarian Philosopher Quotes

Good post. Been considering vegan again. I swear it does something to your state of being.

Do it. I've been reflecting on the quality of my life and it was much higher when I was plant based in the 90s. Without going into too much detail, I suffered many losses and reversals during my low carb paleo years. All things being equal, I do think eating animal foods had a subtle but noticeable effect on my karma which caused me to gravitate towards a downwardly mobile lifestyle. I've gone back plant based the last 6 weeks and am seeing positive changes already.

Thanks for the post.

We are beings of light/frequency.

Our temples are expressions of Soul.

When we honor/nourish them with light/living food/waters, the effect to such cause is highly desirable on all levels of being.

Dense food addiction is, in part, what keeps people locked into their lower energy centers.

People need to discover this on their own.

Well first of all I don't think that anyone really even contests that—regarding the Pratimokshayana—the Buddha's Sangha of monks were allowed to eat meat, if it was given to them during their daily rounds of requesting food from people who supported the Sangha.

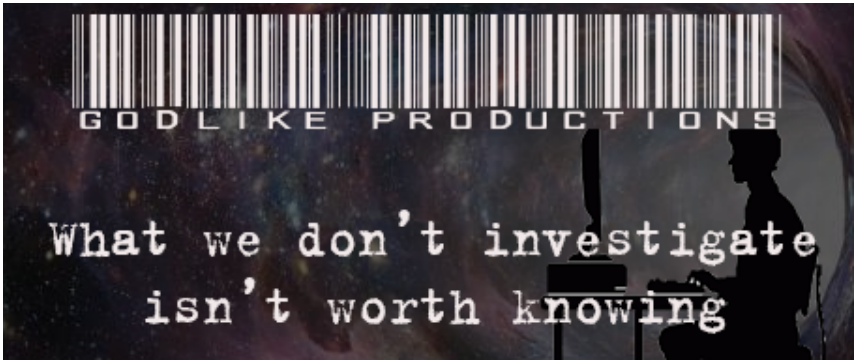

The Mahayana or Paramitayana debate about eating meat, is a little more complicated....
