The most striking thing about the Anomaly is his sadness

Re: The most striking thing about the Anomaly is his sadness

He feels the pain of the world and everyone in it.

We live in a dark age where evil rules.

Sometimes it becomes unbearable to handle the reality of everything. His demeanor becomes grim and silent.

He feels helpless because he knows there's only so much he can do.

He has the answers but he can't force people to listen to him.

He has already tried, and he can deliver the message better than anyone else, but it was a fruitless endeavour. All they do is laugh and mock him, or even worse, threaten him.

The masses are too indoctrinated. As time goes on society will continue falling apart and everyone will suffer more and more.

That will lead to some people finally waking up to the hellish reality we're facing.

But that's the thing, people need to do it on their own. Nobody can force them to see it.

So the Anomaly will wait for the day when society is more receptive to his message. He knows things will get a lot worse before that happens though, and it makes him sad.

as it was in the days of Noah.

all men's thoughts, were evil all the time.

all their thoughts are evil all the time

Quoting: Anonymous Coward 81891435

If that were true Noah would have been Evil as well as All men's thoughts were Evil.

When I ask people to define Evil for me, 99% can't.

They don't know what Evil is because they are Evil and deny it even to themselves.

They are also good and that they are happy to wear in public.

When you deny one half of yourselves as a population that half runs wild.

When people won't see their own Evil they see no reason to curb it.

Would he love you or hate you for that do you think?

How much would you all owe him for spying on him all those years?

It is a breach of Law. How many Judges and leaders or nations would have to go to jail for not stopping a clear crime against a person?

All of them as they would be wilful accessories to the crime.

Who could claim to love a person, but not tell them what was going on?

3) He is despised and rejected of men, a Man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief. And we hid as it were our faces from Him; He was despised, and we esteemed Him not. 4) Surely He hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows; yet we did esteem Him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted. 5) But He was wounded for our transgressions; He was bruised for our iniquities. The chastisement of our peace was upon Him, and with His stripes we are healed.

6) All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all.

I'm sure is focus isn't money nor the watchers, attacks threats, unrelenting actions to stop destiny and a timeline now direct, clearly now forwarding- the stick removed from the spoke. Not hear to make friends or to be loved, the challenge was to know that deeply as true. No one gets the right to tell him that which he cannot discover first on his own.

Re: The most striking thing about the Anomaly is his sadness

Relatively based, OP.

It's no easy task to see the ugliness in the world, in individuals, to behold their ignorant and blissful love of death and materialism, to be aware of their worship of evil disguised as good and foolishness disguised as wisdom. Can't force someone to break through layers upon layers of indoctrination when approaching truth means to destroy the very foundation of "everything we think we know" and ever layer of personal identity attached to it.

The common paradigms and modalities are entirely cancerous and necrotic, they destroy everything they touch. What does one do then when a society of blind leading blind teaching and preaching blindness for the sake of blindness decide they love the known comfort of their disease more than the possibility of working to become anything greater than a mere meatsack full of worldly lusts and desires?

There is only one distinct separation in today's world. There are Living Souls drawing ever closer to the very source of Life that is in them, and there are carnal beasts fully in love with the entropy of the flesh and its gratification. The Spiritual Mind and the Beastly mind are very real and prominent realities. Sadly, far too many are happy and content to remain mere beasts...

In the case of those who commit serious sin easily and pile sin upon sin the frequent, almost usual, tactic of our enemy is to tantalize them with the prospect of illicit sexual pleasure and with other pleasures of the senses in order to keep them full of sins and continually adding to their sinful record. On the other hand, the function of any agency of divine guidance is to keep troubling their conscience and to deter them from sin through syneresis and the judgement of reason
