He has the gift to alter reality like nobody else.

His power grows stronger each day since he awoke from the mental prison.

He has the power to influence and change things in the matrix with his mere consciousness, all from the comfort of his own home.

"What a time to be alive", he says.

Yea well just wait until he goes super saiyan.

Which way do you want him to alter it today?

To the heart of darkness or somewhere else?

Why do you want him to steer it where you want?

Do you think there is a plan or he has a plan?

Maybe the more he gets screwed around the more he screws everyone else around?

Is that what he is trying to teach?

Re: The Anomaly stirs the pot as he alters reality all from the comfort of his own home

It is possible to know the mind of the Lord.

The thought you think in consciousness and wasn't sure of what your subconscious soul know the answer that your superconscious spirit know from the beginning.

Those who sinned had done evil and yet did not admitted what they had done, shall never know Who They Are and what they had done, neither know Who Other Are, nor know What Other Had Done.

Human consciousness is pretty limited compare to the soul that is by far more intellectual with a far greater than a Human brain capacity and consider the human limitation balancing with common sense of the subconsciousness soul.

Be still within and know that 'I Am God' for Almighty God only know you in peace.

You have written these books, and it is very okay to say that you have. It is not necessary for you, or anyone else, to hide your light under a bushel. I have made that point before. Unless you learn to acknowledge Who You Are and what you have done, you can never acknowledge others for Who They Are and what they have done.

It is true that you have been inspired by Me to put these principles into print. It is true that I have given you the words to write. Does that make it any less your achievement? If it does, then you should not honor Thomas Jefferson for writing the Declaration of Independence, Albert Einstein for articulating the theory of relativity, Madam Curie, Mozart, Rembrandt, Martin Luther King, Mother Teresa, or anyone else who has done anything of note in the history of the human race—because I inspired them all.

My son, I cannot tell you how many people to whom I have given wonderful words to write, who have never written them. I cannot tell you how many people to whom I have given wonderful songs to sing, who have never sung them. Do you want the list of people to whom I have given gifts, who have never used them?.

Friendship with God

[snip]

Verily, verily, I say unto you—inasmuch as you have done it to the least of these [son and daughter of man], My brethren [sons and daughters of men], so have you done it to Me.

This is My truth, and it still stands for all the ages.

All these threads get deleted and you know that, in fact you're probably one of the people who demands they get shut down. That's one downside to having an account, some people actually remember the things you say and you clearly hate these threads. So it's reasonable to assume you're one of the shits who demands they get removed.
