The three most important keys are love, wisdom & truth. Wisdom opens the mind, love opens the heart, & truth opens the will

The three most important keys are love, wisdom & truth.
Wisdom opens the mind, love opens the heart, & truth opens the will

"A house consists of different rooms, and each room has at least one door with a lock and key. You can't open all the doors with the same key, so you have to have a key that fits each lock. Yes, keys are important!

In the psychic life too, there are different keys to open those different doors that are our mind, heart and will, doors through which we think, feel and act. You must find these keys and learn how to use them. The three most important keys are love, wisdom and truth. Wisdom opens the mind, love opens the heart, and truth opens the will. When you have a problem, try these keys. If you don't succeed with the first, try the second. If the second doesn't open anything either, try the third. If you know how to go about it, it's impossible that one of these keys will not eventually solve your problem."

Real nice we drove op away.

I think you can only ever have 2 out of 3 at once.

If you love something, our earthly truth is it will die or be lost- not very wise.

This is interesting

The first point

123(4)567

The fourth ray, or chakra, is in the middle

And is referred to as a Gateway

The 1/3/5/7 is masculine

Whereas the 2/4/6 is feminine

There are relationships to, for instance, six and two

Meditation which is a function of 6 helps balance 2

There is much confusion around the qualities of the chakras which is a shame because, in truth, they are ubiquitous across all mind body spirit complexes

Back to the title of the thread

Four is Love/care

Five is Truth/wisdom

They are of Paramount importance to anyone seeking the development of their Soul

One must develop a strong love for the good, the true, the beautiful

One must also commit to balancing their desires, repenting for their errors/sins, and returning to a state of right livelihood / right conduct

I'd been thinking about talking to you again. The information you're giving is exactly what I need right now. Philosophy is interesting, but the topic of gateways is by far the most exciting.

Do you think the fourth ray corresponds to the heart gateway? Some say the heart gateway is the way out of here, others the center of the brain. I guess both gates have to be working...

When I focus inward, I can feel a pulling force sucking me into that inner universe. As I develop, I hope that pulling force will get stronger. Both the outer and the inner universes have a type of emotional gravity to them. As you invest more in the other universe, and pull your energy away from this one... you notice the hold that this universe has on you is weaker. That's a good thing, as this world is just too heavy and cloying for most people.

I'm really looking for techniques to escape this universe, if only for a while. Going through the inner chakras is exciting enough for now.

The end credits of Jupiter Ascending are full of clues.

Peace!

I'm not sure if it's an Earthly truth. But the simulation tries it's best to wrest anything of value from you. So it's not so much a truth, but a 90% rule. I guess we've got to toughen up and be more vigilant.

But as humans reclaim more of their energy, maybe we'll become lucky again. That's what really happened, the planet just got cursed. The whole damn universe is living under a curse.

Always great to chat.

Firstly, let's talk about the qualities of the indigo ray, or sixth ray.

This is the center of higher self, whereby one can experience union with higher self.

Sometimes I like to use the word "knowing" as a quality of sixth ray. Four love, five wisdom, six knowing.

One important thing to note is until lower triad blockage is cleared sufficiently, one cannot fully activate 4/5/6/7. That does not mean we cannot have "glimpses" or "tastes".

The importance of balancing/clearing 1/2/3 is paramount amongst our people. This is essential work on The path.

Four as being a Gateway is SUPER exciting to me, too! You know quite a few spiritual schools of thought place a special emphasis on the Heart. Some say that the Heart is the seat of consciousness, and that the sixth is the seat of the Soul.

I do believe that the fourth ray corresponds to the Heart chakra, yes. Have you ever felt your column in meditation? .

Ananda Bosman is a trippy guy that talks about the phenomenon of the Heart, when radiating in genuine 8Hz compassion, having the amazing capacity to unzip/zip unpack/pack DNA AT WILL.

It correlates with this whole idea of it being The Gateway, right? How cool that the Heart is the place whereby one can activate their dormant potential, unlock the capacity to enter into greater states of rapport/connection to In(phi)nity!

Hah, you've answered my question as I read more into your response. Super cool, the pulling you speak of.

The core teachings of Gotama per the Pali Cannon may (or may not) be of interest to you. Gotama describes the nature of suffering and the way to permanently free oneself from it.

I too seek completion of The Path. I believe that we are all destined to return to the state of Avatar or Buddhahood. Complete and total freedom from illusion, pain, and suffering.

I agree. Tuning into our energy centers is great work. Some of us have heavier residue to clear than others. Some of us have had intense childhoods where we now are sort of forced with the necessity to clear and integrate. Many of us avoid this work as it requires us to feel the pain in order to release it.

Re: The three most important keys are love, wisdom & truth.
 Wisdom opens the mind, love opens the heart, & truth opens the will

The point whereby one makes contact with The All is at the seventh ray (crown), which correlates to the Pineal.

Many mistakenly attribute the sixth to the pineal. The truth is the sixth is connected to the pituitary.

"Holy Matrimony" is actually the union of the Pineal(father) with the pituitary(mother). The result of this union through proper livelihood and spiritual practice results in Divine Illumination.

The Bible spells this out clearly to those with eyes to see.

Amazing stuff.

Lots to talk about there... if you are ever able to take some form of transportation to Taipei you are welcome. We could talk about many subjects and find a path forward for everyone. We could even reach a written agreement online if you're unable to travel.

- I mainly use Carlos Castaneda's recapitulation to release traumatic memories. I combine it with a Daoist dissolving methods. I think we already have the avatar inside, if we just clear the blockages.

- I think it's true you have to work with centers 1,2 and 3 before going higher. Else the lower desires will dominate the higher.

- Inphinity. I never realized that play on words. I used to read some Dan Winter.

- Four love, five wisdom, six knowing... I'll remember that.

- I haven't worked with the indigo ray much, but I like the colour. Somewhere on Earth there's a land with a deep purple sky. Going there is a peaceful, healing experience.

- I have worked with the spine energies, instead of the central column (I guess you mean sushuma). I've mainly worked with individual energy centers. I need to spend more time working with them as a whole.

- I'll check out Ananda Bosman ASAP, thanks.

I'll be online for the next few hours, happy to talk if you have time.

That would be fun. No immediate possibility of visiting Taiwan though maybe in the future.

Committing oneself to the service of others is something I am called to. I have been, and continue to be, engaged in self-healing. I've experienced much crisis in my life which is necessary for people (and groups of people) to evolve/develop/grow. How do you engage in service to others?

I will look into recapitulation. You are the second person to bring this to my awareness. I agree with you. We are already Buddhas. We just have to remember/realize. There is also much balancing/clearing that we must engage in.

An interesting potentiality to dance upon is that the root chakra or red ray is unique in that it is fully active in every individual yet it is the second ray that determines how much energy is able to move upward into the mind/body/spirit complex. Those with low vitality have issues to address in two and three.

I lost this thread.

Service to others is one of the best ways to heal, IMO. Helping others who are currently experiencing the same difficulties that you overcame yourself is a faster track to healing.

Taisha Abelar wrote an entire book on the Recapitulation. Being in Dreaming/The Witches Dream by Florinda Donner Grau is also fantastic.

My service to others, right now, is

- 1) Meditation
- 2) Building an Open Source Microfinance Web-App
- 3) Being online and trying to answer any healing threads I can.

It can be a drag, but it definitely makes the day more interesting... at least I have purpose now.

I didn't know that the second and third chakra block the root energy moving up. Now you mention it, that makes perfect sense. Im currently trying to figure out the chakra/planetary correspondances now.

Peace!
