Do you feel you've outgrown this world?

It's all so stupid, mundane, and pointless.

Incompetence and evil ubiquitous. Lies. Suffering.

There is literally Nothing that interests me about this world anymore.

I have to stick around with billions of others and eat and piss and shit, to sustain a body I dont want, in a world I hate.

I'm just..disgusted.

I burn in my anger awaiting the destruction of it all.

Nothing new under the sun in the most stupid and disappointing of all possible worlds.

Shit planet full of puke people. I renounce my position in the human wheel of shit. Press the fucking button.

Re: Do you feel you've outgrown this world?

long ago .

i think ive overcome the visceral distaste and hatred that you feel but still find so many dilemmas in reconciling ideals with the sad realities .

yet giving up is not an option , overcoming means not submitting to obstacles but finding a resolution to them even if that means continuing in a pattern not knowing what to do awaiting providence or whatever happenstance may arise to point the way forward .

Jane Fonda went into cancer remission.. she's still making some stupid woke show on Netflix. Go die already you old bitch, you're like 83, and you've polluted the world long enough.

Sometimes I feel like God is purposefully demoralizing us.

Re: Do you feel you've outgrown this world?

The time has come for everyone to live angry.

We've played softball and tolerated long enough.

You'll see ALOT more anger in 2023, I am certain.

All this tolerance and pussified culture, it's time is about up.

you are measuring "the world" by the factors of the augmentation...in which case you have a point.

Do you feel you've outgrown this world?

chances are that you have barely experienced the world.

just another disturbed murmur from deep within the matrix

Re: Do you feel you've outgrown this world?

I feel we need to start taking responsibility for this world considering we have all played our part in creating the conditions we currently are forced to live under. Unfortunately I have found that no one wants to take responsibility, it is always someone elses fault. Couple that with being programmed into expecting an outside savior and you find a recipe for disaster.

Guarantee, if we dont get our shit together and fix this ourselves, we are coming back to the same situation or worse, depending on how much negative karma you have manged to accrue.

true , but people are trained to defer and transfer blame and not hold ones self accountable for their own faults . a consequence of the self fixation , narcissism that social media makes worse but is in no way limited to .

a 'can do' attitude is very much needed in these time , yet the conveniences we are provided make such a framework of self reliance all but obsolete .

unless there is a conscious and concerted effort made on a cultural level to correct these things it may be deprivation and tragedy which will FORCE people to come back to reality .
