Re: The truth is..... I am The Anomaly

Anyone who says they are disqualified themselves.

The individual doesn't get to pick, everyone else picks among the candidate.

Any who said "I am the One " were automatically disqualified as not having enough self control.

OP is not the Anomaly.

The Anomaly is psychic and can speak to anyone on Earth from anywhere.

The don't need to announce who they are.

1) You have hinted at being the N dozens of times. Including saying *my money's on that guy from New Zealand* under a different account.

2) There will never be a public contest. Any Anomalies worth their salt will be running huge open source projects in Asia, while you guys are fighting it out here. Cooperate as part of a group, instead of doing the *carefully guide him to victory, and snatch the crown at the last minute* game you are planning. You will feel better, laying back and accepting your place in Infinity, instead of coveting that which you have not earned, and that which is not yours.

3) Will this thread survive the weekend?

Re: The truth is..... I am The Anomaly

Seeing the Anomaly phenomenon as a beauty contest is infantile and dangerous.

In order to fix this world, men and women will need to cooperate.

If you are drooling over being The Leader, people are going to get unsettled and creeped out.

It's like a double-bass player in an orchestra saying "All those other musicians are frauds except me"

Frighteningly selfish.

Would the universe be dumb enough to let anyone like that through?

That's not the norm though. The people that are the 'leaders' are the one's that desperately want to be the leaders.

In my perspective, the best people don't want any power, thus, they will never try to rule.

The will and desire to rule IS a problem all on its own. Even a lottery that selected our leaders at random would be better in some ways.

Nothing is going to work though. Putting hope in the world to fix it from within is like trying to clean dirt with dirt.

It's only the norm in politics.

In Engineering and Magick, its whoever builds the best stuff that gets to lead.

And politicians are becoming more subservient to engineers by the day.

If you want to be the best guitarist, you don't get into a slapfight with all the other players in town. You just go and woodshed.
