Re: Everybody knows that the janitor is the cornerstone

EM fields? How do they connect it geographically?

Quoting: Anonymous Coward 63339047

Well they have rooms with all white walls and ceilings and floors with this interesting glass material which when powered on can display differencely propotioned chunks of measurement data. Its like if you zoom out on a weather map and watch the entirety of climate rolling over earth at once that is going to give you very very different information than if you zoom into springfield, usa or jim jone's house.

But the software's key lies in how you connect datapoints - start isolating the interactions between two particular countries or even a group of like minded demographics of people. Those can get values from a to k to 8 or any other symbol in the known history of real and fictional language - and any combination thereof! The expotential processing power of certain data facilities have been specifically purposed to make more and more complex correlations of named key values and their relationship to other key values.

Re: Everybody knows that the janitor is the cornerstone

The GCP dot is an easy and basic example of "critical" values. We all know here when the dot consistently is showing either red or blue for a certain amount of hours this is critically significant, but the software they have is constantly monitoring many more critical values and when they occur they are archived and the system's backlog automatically begins organizing these critical values into their proper context geographically, and in terms of when it ocurred in time and what biological or technological sources of power fed into it's manifestation and at what percentage those sources of power contributed to the entire manifest.

Thus, the detail of the patterned connections they have been able to isolate as significant has increased and as time goes on they are able to more precisely discern how to manipulate key variables at KEY POINTS in TIME. It's called a MANDALA effect because in hyperdimensional space a mandala is what structures and cogerently affects the manifestation of a chosen reality. This works equally well ABOVE (externally, astrologically, collectively, in the 'seen' world 'out there', the 'heavens') and BELOW (in the physical structure of the brain, the body, the heart, the cells, the organism, a collection of atomic vortexes between time and space, which become internal universes of infinite energy trapped in sections between the unmanifest "pleroma" )

Enter the "wizard of oz", run the really programming software, well now you've got the attention of other EL or Gods, lesser to source but fully fledged programmers in their own right.

Well everyone was wrong in the last couple decades thinking alien wars would take place as a physical battle in space, "star wars" are DIMENSIONAL.

Hence "fallen" or "celestial" really is just a matter of wisdom and ignorance.

The extra dimensions only care about those who have "keys" to the wisdom, they don't care about those who think they have power but have no idea how to screw with reality source codes, thats why so called "nobodies" are important enough for goverments to actually spend time money and resources on even though they aren't rich or famous, because those nobodies have caught the eye of some VERY POWERFUL "somethings"

They dropped bombs on Europe in my dream last night. Three planes flew right down the biggest street in the center of the city and dropped bombs like it was a warzone. Immediate chaos erupted everywhere. I was afraid at first and hid under a tower with our traveling party. But I knew that the outskirts of the countryside would be safe.

Goodnight fellow shining one. I enjoy the little peeks you share of their lives, its like a breath of fresh air when my life is constantly watched. Have they ever once considered, that you know of, maybe helping a nobody? Maybe loving one? I would think it wise to earn our loyalty... for a very different thing is being earned as far as I can remember.

The star is there, are the wise men following? Will they present gifts this time around? It doesn't seem like it. God hurts at the coldness of humanity's heart, is it so? Please have a heart!!!!

Quoting: Ether Heavens 72367245

They have a very strange idea, that pain is love.

I guess you could say they hurt those whom they admire the most.

I think in their own way some think they are helping.

Quoting: K-lis

Gabriel told me why this a fact. It's because of the "size" of the heart of the "clients" or nobodies. In order to grow a heart, most hearts not all, you must break the heart then it willingly loves again. This shows even though they fear the powers of these nobodies they still have the end goal of growing and maximizing their powers because the heart is the tool to bending reality. The end goal is because these nobodies are the ones that can become the garden of Eden, which is basically a separate magnetosphere (smaller) on/in earth that can be made to save DNA for when earths surface calms back down. Like a fixed Noah's ark, or is it arc?

Look up fire-rainbows, they occur around me daily, well a few miles radius.

They do not understand that this heartbreaking is not needed! Love would expand the size much better! Love for me is unlimited. Every time they break a heart there is a chance it will die!!!

I can see what it looks like when they watch it but I'm a godawful artist and that's why when I describe it I have to hope the reader has enough foundational knowledge to get a decent idea of what this hyperdimensional stuff might look like. And then of course some of the readers here see it or have seen it and know what it looks like already.

Re: Everybody knows that the janitor is the cornerstone

Last night I dreamed about somebody I love very much, but will probably never see again. In my dream, we could have been together forever, in the way things should have been from the start, and I felt my heart heat up so much it was like glowing with heat and light...I woke up with my hand on my heart and my mind saying, "please please let it be real...and not a dream...it must be real...my heart is on fire".

but then I went back to sleep...I dreamed of dinner with hillary as I mentioned, we were in a hotel room, we kept separating and then coming back together...upon waking up I noticed hillary looked like a well-known actress in my dream, not herself...

Well the GCP dot is kind of like comparing a DOS operating system to a modern-day cellphone. It's comical in retrospect. I guess you could say the GCP dot is like a taste of 'alpha' phase of some very advanced "predictive programming" software.

Yeah, that's why if you start looking at that many variables you get something more like a 'shape' than a color.

In order to monitor so much, you need to have a sliding scale of 'priority' to organize which areas are of the greatest interest. What qualifies if of interest is different depending on what you're scanning for. you also need - 'specialists' - to watch different areas of interest. politics , entertainment, sports, you know, classic 'ministry' dohmains.

they found the nobody by accident, and many departments found him, not because they were looking for him, but because their 'perfect' system was reporting results that couldn't possibly be real, and yet they were.

Yeah, that's why if you start looking at that many variables you get something more like a 'shape' than a color.

In order to monitor so much, you need to have a sliding scale of 'priority' to organize which areas are of the greatest interest. What qualifies if of interest is different depending on what you're scanning for. you also need - 'specialists' - to watch different areas of interest. politics , entertainment, sports, you know, classic 'ministry' dohmains.

they found the nobody by accident, and many departments found him, not because they were looking for him, but because their 'perfect' system was reporting results that couldn't possibly be real, and yet they were.

real as in geographically localized weather shifts like temperature, humidity, wind speed, air pressure, etc. associated with places and events?

statistically impossible 'coincidences' occurring a rate that made their possible occurrence less than statistically impossible, their probability started becoming negative.

but is it spatial?

Is their tracking spatial? Their tracking is spatiotemporal. You see, behavior can be indexed, as can emotional states, in a manner similar to the way meteorologists watch the climate. Watching a mind-climate or an earth climate has certain similarities.

And they can be standardized to a compatible format of metric, despite being such apparently divergent types of data.

correlating data of the two and mapping it? that's one thing but how could an anomaly present itself that it would be recognized as a person and not something else? like if it starts with recognition of weird phenomena how is it considered a single human as opposed to something non human or even non-biological?

OMFG....check out "Hero Quest" on netflix...

specifically about a white wolf and just added...so creepy...omg

Quoting: K-lis

The "white wolves" protected the villagers in this special forest....

For some reason Mila Jochavich plays the hero, a little boy...odd

Quoting: K-lis

Oh, okay, so the little boy is saved by a white wolf , I guess this white wolf is the boy's gaurdian...he wakes up from an injury with a blue monarch butterfly on his face, now I'm really creeped out...

Aie carumba

The white wolf can turn back and forth from a wolf to a white haired man that looks almost just like Lu, somehow 🤔 which has always been something that took place in my head as well, as I pictured my guardian in both wolf form and as Lu, so this is really strange.

Have you ever seen thermal imaging? you can tell the difference between heat from a biological source and from another source, like an object.

to what scale? how detailed is that software to pick out a human being out of a community and correlate its heat to its locality? wouldnt there be more variables and some models and such? it sounds like the data is quantitative to begin with

Re: Everybody knows that the janitor is the cornerstone

I know some GIS, I've done some climate map stuff as well as human population and demographic stuff but to put together the two in such detail would be very advanced. I think so much so that you would have to almost know what you are looking for to begin with, unless it really was such a draconian extreme of surveillance.

Every source of conscious perception is a source of energy. The type of energy shows up in different ways because all consciousness has a different geometry. The intersection of let's call them - spheres of consciousness, sources of heat, creates areas of fuzzy distortion where the different forms of consciousness intersect. A human being has a particular geometry, the whole species has certain distinguishable features, then each specific member of the species has its own unique features while sharing the qualities which all members of the species possesses. There are layers of details that manifest more clearly the more they are focused on.

If you zoom too far out you may only see a fuzzy correlation between a human mindplex and a weather anomalie. But if you get closer to the source of the data, think of it like you would zoom into a specific area on google earth, you start to see the details and characteristics of the locality and the population which resides there. The same is true of the human nervous system.

is it just heat that's the link? haven't tried air pressure?

No it's more than heat. It's the interplay of all the forces which moderate heat as well. Pressure moderates heat, so it would be included.
