I see we have all the ugly stepchildren trying to make the shoe fit when they didn't have to live the life of hell to get it.

Now we can prove it.

I once challenged all the Anomalies to tell us their backstory so the non-psychic audience could compare for themselves.

They psychic people already know.

Tell us your backstory.

I think everyone who thinks they are the A should tell us their backstory so we can all judge for ourselves.

Re: The Anomaly's Wrath

It takes all those people and a leader to co-ordinate them all.

Someone who is an expert at facilitating the needs and requests of everyone.

Good leaders do a lot of work. They take turns with the people on each of the tasks to make sure they know all the details.

It makes sense to have a leader everyone trusts by having a competition to find out who is best at this.

Otherwise you are talking about making people follow someone they don't trust who might have opinions they don't share...that never works in the long run.

The Candidates simply share their lives freely with everyone and people choose to follow the people they relate to the most.

To do it any other way is forcing people to do something they don't want which is known as Evil.

I'm sure Daozen will have some people who like him. I don't see what he is so worried about.

People will then split off and make their own paths in reality which appear as new realities from this one.

There are no limits except what people choose to accept of their own free-will.

Most of us are already in psychic contact with our soul groups and have been for over 3 years.

No one is making anyone join anything they don't want to be a part of...except those who desire to be dictators.

Quoting: Anonymous Coward 82320223

Well, that's a little better.

Everyone goes their own separate ways. That's what I've been saying for a year.

Im not worried about anything at all. I just don't see why you think there will be a contest. I'm sure not turning up to anything...

Take your people and do as you please in your own Private Universe. If anyone thinks they can sacrifice and screw kids in mine, they will end up getting pushed out. 95 to 97% of behaviour is permitted here. There are hard limits on some nefarious acts.

Regarding trust...

All I have to do, is in any public debate, is ask the other person if they want to talk under penalty of perjury, and watch them go to pieces in public.

There is plenty of room for everyone in the multi-verse... so, again... I don't understand the Winner-Takes-All model... the universes will split off, and we'll leave each other in peace.

Why would I submit to any contest or judgement, when I know, already, that I am Doozle, Black Eyed-Fool?

Quoting: Anonymous Coward 83838347

That is not the prize.

The prize is a cottage, near a lake, building software, and having someone you love boiling ginger and goji berries on the stove. Then tons of people use your software, and find peace.

You may be right there is no "prize" to grab.

Dissolution of The World into The Void, or Partial Void, is better.

But you can see from the stalkers, that they are intent on making a lunge at some point.

Tedious.

Regarding leadership...

Trinity made GLP. He sets light rules, but lets people lead themselves.

He pins topics, but lets most people say what they want.

A simple but powerful mix of chaos and curation.

Now imagine if crowdfunding and a secret bank-foundation married GLP.

That alone could change the world.

Do The Rolling Stones enter a best band contest?

Why bother even attending a competition loaded with drooling cucks intent on stealing your power?

That is a TOTAL waste of time.

There is literally NO benefit, and everything to lose.
