It's like a double-bass player in an orchestra saying "All those other musicians are frauds except me"

Frighteningly selfish.

Would the universe be dumb enough to let anyone like that through?

Fix this world?

You are talking about Tyranny in the name of making things how you think.

Nature uses conflict to produce the best of each thing. That process is what keeps life from going extinct.

So you are referring to changing people, which is tyranny.

It is not a beauty contest, it is a intelligence test.

You have to pick the smartest one or...what happens if they don't listen to the smartest one?

The smartest one demonstrates what he says as true by demonstration. He will alter reality to demonstrate the validity of his words and ideas.

Not only that is he will explain it so anyone can also do those things.

We can overthrow forests in weeks or months. Poverty will disappear because there will never be lack again.

Rather than pick who lives and dies and who is worthy and not worthy, people will reveal that by their actions once they have The Power at their disposal.

None of the Power Players like my proposal. It threatens them, yet it fixes things the same way nature fixes things.

The best will prevail.

Those who just want to fight and create conflict will destroy each other. That way they will not be around to wreck the co-operative levels of existence and the people who know how to exist with each other without needless conflict will go onward and upward.

In truth the Universe and God has already chosen. Everyone is free to pick their own path or Oppressive Leader if they want.

This apparent reality is so tiny compared to all there is.

Either way for you to get what you want you are proposing eliminating people who don't do as you desire. Just how the Archons act and think.

Escape is Freedom. If you want to take over this reality it will be a fight and will require the remains of humanity to assist.

I don't think that will happen.

Better to get out before Slavery from birth becomes a reality. That is what the Club is proposing to keep themselves safe. Chip people from birth with Neurolink etc.

They think it will fix the world.

I disagree. They are being played.

You don't see God here telling everyone what to do and how to behave and threatening them with non existence of they don't.

Clearly that is not The Way in his opinion.

Yeah they offered me the same deal they offered the other candidates. They can't do it themselves, they tried will all the members of their families. None of them have enough of the ability.

They have been breeding their champion since before Jesus.

They diverge between natural breeding and genetic engineering.

The Genetic side has been mutating people with chemicals and vaccines for decades hoping to produce the mutation they want.

They have labs of kids they have bred from embryos. Slaved up to machine to amplify their abilities. It is the secret to their successes. The ability to influence people's minds without them knowing.

Most of the candidates here have experienced their touches.
They didn't hex your account, they used their "tools".

Despite that the remaining candidates are more powerful than the genetic engineered creations they have made.

They have tried to destruction test all of us. Any who claims to be The One gets tested.

Some don't make it. Zimmer 101. Several people said they thought he was the guy, he got tested...and died. One of many they have expended.

Every nation has it's psychics in the Intelligence and Military. So do several corporations and many billionaires also operate their own departments with their own kidnapped kids.

Most of the candidates have the same or similar backstories and experiences. They don't like any of them to talk to each other. It is too revealing.

Seeing the Anomaly phenomenon as a beauty contest is infantile and dangerous.

In order to fix this world, men and women will need to cooperate.

But why make it a contest at all?

How about everyone goes their separate ways, with the leader/facilitator of their choice?

What's with the "There can be only one" thinking?

Fix This World?

People don't have inexpensive heating for the winter,. You bring out an invention which heats inexpensively. Problem solved. They don't know about turpentine, wheatgrass and iodine. You tell them. That's what I mean by 'fixing'.

In a public reality, you have no business telling people how to live. In a private reality, you can boot people you don't like.

So you can do anything you like, and gather any following you want.

But I would not talk about 'candidates' and contests.

In a free willed universe, why would anyone turn up to a contest you held? They would go and build their own city, with their own friends, and live as they desired.

God does sort people. Wheat and Tares.

All human beings sort through people, pick the ones they don't like, and discard the rest.

So live as you desire.... gather all the followers you want... you just seem hell bent on "eliminating the competition." which seems like an unhappy way to be.
