Light - the elixir of eternal life

"In Greece it is referred to as ambrosia, in India soma, and alchemists call it the elixir of eternal life... All cultures make mention of the existence of a beverage of immortality and some even explain how to prepare it. In reality this beverage exists in nature, but not just anywhere of course. It is found only in the most subtle and purest regions of space and only at specific moments, such as sunrise. Dawn is the best time of the day, because the true beverage of immortality is light, and you can capture it in the morning at sunrise and use it to nourish your subtle bodies.
If, in spring and summer, we go to watch the sunrise, it is in order to drink this quintessence of life as it spreads throughout the universe. Stones, plants, animals and humans can all receive it. All living beings receive these particles unconsciously, but humans can learn to capture them consciously. Make an effort to get up and greet the sunrise, to welcome this light into your heart, into your soul, and you will taste immortal life."

Take my yoke and put it on you, and learn from me, because I am gentle and humble in spirit; and you will find rest. For the yoke I will give you is easy, and the load I will put on you is light."

Re: Light - the elixir of eternal life

The real Soma or Elixir comes from within when we draw our attention back within, into stillness/silence/peace/awareness. Then energy floods our gross and subtle bodies.

That said, sunlight is very important too, especially at the exact moment the sun is 50% above and 50% below the horizon. These are the two most powerful moments of the day and it only lasts a minute each time.

Re: Light - the elixir of eternal life

Light - weapon against evil entities

When you feel anxious, tormented, link yourself to heaven and pray. For these anxieties and torments are manifestations of evil entities that wish to harm you. But as soon as you link yourself to heaven, they say to themselves, 'This being uses the most formidable weapon known to us,' and they are afraid and attempt to flee. When humans pray sincerely, they use the weapons of light, and immediately an invisible cohort approaches: you will hear the quivering of angels' wings and the retreat of dark entities as they rush to disappear, for they know they will be burned and pulverized. Evil spirits are afraid of one thing only: the light. That is why, whenever there is difficulty or danger, you must immediately link yourself to the Creator and increase the light within you. All the lower beings that are threatening you will be neutralized, paralysed or chased away.

When you go out in the morning to the sunrise, remember that you are on your way to meet a being that is alive, just as all of nature around you is alive – birds, animals, trees and flowers. For life is the entire universe, including the infinite number of creatures inhabiting it, which are invisible but real. So, send them a greeting: tell them you are grateful to them for the clear morning and for all the living beings that are waking up. Know also that within nature, the living, conscious body to which we all belong, there is a multitude of entities ready to contribute to the evolution of humanity. Earth, water, air, fire and the entities that live within them have pledged before the Eternal to help all those working to become beings of peace, harmony and beauty. So, ask them to come and take part in bringing about God's kingdom on earth. One day, billions of spirits will set to work on human hearts and minds, and heaven will recognize you as a builder of the new life, a wellspring, a son or daughter of God.

Earth, water, air and fire... The four elements that make up the matter of creation are also nourishment for humans. Each day they feed on earth and water, that is, on solid and liquid food, and the air they breathe also feeds them. As for fire, it is contained within these different forms of nourishment, but also in the sun's warmth and light. Like all creatures, humans benefit from the sun's warmth and light, but unconsciously. If they learned how to take them in consciously, this would be a source of extraordinary riches for them, for it is their true nourishment and the one they need the most, to sustain their life as well as their inspiration and joy. The sun is a food, and it is the best of foods. Why limit ourselves to earth, water and air? We have to learn to nourish ourselves with fire and light too, which is what we do at the sunrise. In the Zend Avesta it says that when Zoroaster asked the god Ahura Mazda what the first human beings fed on, the god replied, 'They ate fire and drank light.' So they drew on the life of the sun, which is fire and light.

"One of the best spiritual exercises is to meditate on light. Leave aside all your other preoccupations and concentrate on light, as if your life depended on it. You may imagine this light as being coloured, but it is preferable to picture it as being white, because white is the synthesis of all the other colours. White brings together the omnipotence of violet, the peace and truth of blue, the wealth and eternal youth of green, the wisdom and knowledge of yellow, the health and vigour of orange, and the strength and dynamism of red.

Once you are really able to concentrate on light, once you feel it as a living, vibrating, quivering entity where all is peace and fulfilment, you will begin to become aware that it is also music, this cosmic music we call the music of the spheres, the song of all that exists in the universe, and you will breathe in the fragrances that emanate from it. There is no work more worthy and powerful than your work with light."

The spirits of light intervene only when asked. If nothing is asked of them, they do not come in. Angels occasionally look in on humans, but even if you are prey to dark entities they will say, 'We don't have the right to impose on this being. We haven't been asked for anything, so we must respect this person's freedom.' Only dark spirits allow themselves to come in without authorization. This is precisely what differentiates the spirits of light from the spirits of the dark. The spirits of the dark respect nothing. Spirits of light, on the other hand, wait for you to become open to them. And when they feel they are invited, what a joy it is for them! They see you as an awakened being, and they sing, 'We, the powers of heaven, may at last enter these souls to help them and work with them', and they inspire your thoughts, your feelings, your actions and your words.

"Why do you limit yourself to the contacts you make on the physical plane with human beings? There are other beings to encounter in the universe and with whom you can establish relationships. Every day you have the possibility not only to link yourselves with the luminous entities who populate the universe, but to draw them nearer to you. So address yourselves to them: 'Come, celestial friends, come make your dwelling place in me.' You can also add: 'Lord God, Divine Mother, Holy Trinity, all angels and archangels, servants of God and of light, my entire being belongs to you; make use of me for the glory of God, for his kingdom and justice on earth.' Pronounce these words is the true consecration. If you do not know how to invite the celestial spirits, do not be surprised when other entities, in no way celestial, come and establish themselves in you without waiting for an invitation! It is up to you to decide who you want for inhabitants."

"The invisible world is just like the visible world: it is inhabited by some extremely evolved creatures, luminous entities, pure and true, but also by others that are inclined to deceive humans so as to harm them. Unfortunately, it is often the latter that are present at spiritualist séances. Yes, it's true; do you really imagine that the most evolved entities are at the beck and call of the first person to call themselves a medium, or that they waste their time satisfying the curiosity and desires of those who take part in séances?"

Of course, you are free to feed on illusions, but the truth is plain: the entities that respond to the call of mediums are often larvae of the lower astral plane, elementals, and not those the mediums believe they have called. Do you wish to call up spirits? Be aware, at least, that the quality and accuracy of their messages depends on your degree of evolution and that of the medium. Human beings attract either luminous or dark entities, depending on the quality of their inner life."

Those who do not put themselves in service of the light necessarily serve the darkness. This is an implacable law. Willingly or not, consciously or not, if you fail to choose heaven, you are headed for hell. If you do not make the decision to climb, you will come tumbling down. You may think: 'The light? Heaven? What on earth is that? I want to be free!' Well, you will not be able to prevent the forces of darkness from coming to dwell in you. Those who seek this kind of freedom will discover slavery. They fail to realize that they are placing themselves under the influence of dark entities which are only interested in exploiting them. They get mixed up in things, imagining it is they themselves who desire and decide, when in fact they are carrying out someone else's business. Most people are like children when it comes to understanding freedom: they believe they are free when they engage in all sorts of unreasonable and dangerous things, which will eventually limit or even destroy them. They open the cages of wild beasts which will tear them apart and devour them. Only the wise know that to be free they must first limit themselves, by placing themselves in service of the divine world."
