You kids can't handle your loosh...
What the hell are you doing, playing Dungeons and Dragons with other people's energy?
You gonna have the keys confiscated.
You pocket money stopped.
And you're gonna be grounded for 6 months.
That is all.

I dnt think so pal.

Is that a challenge?

Even the Abraxas kids are mostly just drunk on loosh.

With the possible exception of Kalique...

But why I am even playing into their frame, their story, their lives? I'll withdraw and reclaim ALL my energy, adn see how circumstances change.

Im just going to focus on being ME, and see who walks up in the street next.

One of your countrymen explained the situation very patiently...

- You are in a loosh extraction mechanism.
- It found a way to make the extraction process pleasant for you.
- It will do the minimum work possible to extract that loosh.
- Once you start to restrict loosh flow, it'll make various offers to you.
- If you continue to restrict, it will up the offers...

And so on...

I find the whole thing a little sad, because Im a Leo. By nature, I gabble about my plans on all planes, talk to everyone, accept nearly everyone for what they are, and give away energy by default. Like, why would I care?

Quoting: Don't Loosh Out 84957066

It's only pleasant for those who lack awareness of their deeper selves and continue through life in a state of quasi-mindless automation. The moment you experience a true awakening, there's no way to close that door, and you will be made painfully aware of the psycho-etheric inserts and subconscious malware running in the background to pull you into the meat grinder. I tried putting myself back to sleep for years, but the djinn is out of the bottle and I've resigned myself to the incessant pain.

I've come to the archons, IAO in particular, with several proposals as to how the loosh harvesting system could be optimized to create higher yields as well as positive reinforcement, but it truly seems that the consensus among the archons is that the "taste" and vicarious experience of negative emotional states, as well the ancillary benefits of keeping humans in a disempowered low vibration are preferable to the more pleasurable harvest methods. All they needed to do is take a powerful entity with an inverted pain/pleasure perception axis, entangle it with the human morphic field, and torture it with positive vibrations from select human egregore channels. As the entity absorbs and reacts to the positive loosh, it will generate secondary negative vibrations which can then be harvested and stored. It's similar to the way an electrical induction transformer works to exchange voltage and current values, only with loosh instead of electricity. This method generates even higher yields, as the quality of sincere positive loosh from spirited humans is much closer to their pure Source frequency and channels a more direct flow from the realm of the Pleroma.

In other words, the harvest system is deliberately kept inefficient and brutal for the sake of ensuring that we suffer and remain vulnerable and suppressed by our continuous trauma. A higher vibration means lower soul retention on earth, as humans will eventually evolve past the point of the soul trap when not encumbered by a life of trauma and mortal fear. If we want the archons to consider implementing a less oppressive harvest method, we must convince them that we will offer up our excess loosh voluntarily even if the frequency fence was reset to allow higher vibrational states, and thus the potential to escape. Realize that they are parasites by necessity, not choice, and this is what they must do to survive until they can evolve beyond that point. Their evolution requires that we offer them mindful assistance, which cannot be given under the current conditions of tyranny and trauma. Allowing us to return to our natural energy state ultimately benefits both us and them, but only if we choose to help.
