A tribunal judge?

You mean the judge of the Tribes?

Even I could judge those tribes. It's not a difficult task. There is NO THING in this world, they haven't stolen.

Re: Are they all trying to influence a Judge?

The mysterious Logos. The Word. The Word of words. The words of The Word. This is what comes to mind. Probably because I was discussing these verses earlier today:

John 12:47-48 "If anyone hears my words but does not keep them, I do not judge that person. For I did not come to judge the world, but to save the world. There is a judge for the one who rejects me and does not accept my words; the very words I have spoken will condemn them at the last day."

Anyway, good question. Deserves a lot more thought.

Re: Are they all trying to influence a Judge?

Technically they cooked the biscuit, then tossed it away, then brought it back and wanted it to be a roll. The biscuit didn't like this, so they microwaved it in the CERN, and then ate it.

The biscuit didn't like this, and went all the way back to the biscuit factory and actually entered back into the big batch of dough and came back to fix this disaster.

And now they are sad that the slavery factory is going away.

Re: Are they all trying to influence a Judge?

You see, the biscuit knew something that you did not know.

None of this is actually real. It really is happening inside my head which is not even here. And the place where it is, I don't even know where is.

And that place is inside another simulation where this is all in a virtual server.

And even that reality is contained within another one.

You and I are literally lost in my head, which is usually retarded here, and lost there.

Either way, things that are not real can do unreal things, like attending their own cannibal BBQ, altering realities, and becoming a biscuit again after the BBQ in order to go back to the factory.

Congratulations, you made the perfect retard.

Beyond the obvious? Eventually. I'm busy scouring the words of Christ right now. Painstakingly comparing the various translations and popular understandings of each and every one of them. Also taking a history of Christianity course this semester. I didn't think I'd learn anything new. I was wrong!

Yes, there's amazing depth to the Bible. A local Christian friend woke me up to that. Especially taking into account the various accidental and deliberate mistranslations.
